

Ch. 2 Anchor Ann Holt Takes Maternity Leave

By BEVERLY GARRISON

Ann Holt, familiar anchorwoman on WKRN-Channel 2, will be going on maternity leave after Wednesday evening's newscast.

Replacing her, for the next two to three months, are Jessica Etz and Bob Mueller, veteran reporters for the station.

Etz will co-anchor the 5 p.m. news with George Jones, while Mueller will join Jones on the 10 p.m. broadcast.

"Ann's baby is due in early June," said Mike Sullivan, news director. "We're just glad she got this far. With babies, you never know about these things."

Sullivan hopes Holt will be back, at least on a part-time basis, after two months. "We don't want her to disappear completely," he said. "And we hope to have her back full-time in three months."

Mueller is one of two Capitol Hill reporters at the station. He came to WKRN in September 1980 from WTVC in Chattanooga and had previously worked for a television station in Peoria, Ill. Etz started her career at a television station in Austin, Tex.

Both interim anchors will continue their reporting duties.

It was decided to use two anchor people to replace Holt in order for the station to build some back-up strength in its anchor positions, Sullivan said.

This is Holt's first child and her co-workers at WKRN are planning a small celebration for her on Wednesday. Details of the event haven't been released. "But Ann is a favorite and everyone wants to give her a good send-off," Sullivan said.

Holt joined the station in 1976 as weekend anchor. She currently is the only female in the Middle Tennessee market anchoring both weeknight newscasts. Holt is a graduate of the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, where she received a degree in broadcast management.

Steve's Synthesizer

Tonight's "African Relief Benefit" at the Unitarian Church on Woodmont Blvd. will be a kind of Nashville premiere. Steve Young, the singer/songwriter of such American classics as Seven Bridges Road, Montgomery in the Rain, and Lonesome On'y & Mean, will debut his new "space music" synthesizer sound. Also on the bill are The San Kofa Dance Theatre, Bernadette Kelsey & Endangered Species, and Eileen Price & Tommy Smith. Showtime is 8 p.m. Tickets are $5.

Historic Buildings Honored

Thirteen outstanding historic buildings in Nashville were honored last week at the Metro Historical Commission's Architectural Awards Program.

Myrick Howard, director of the Historic Preservation Foundation of North Carolina, selected the winners from 50 nominated properties, and he and Mayor Richard Fulton presented the awards.

Award winners in the residential category were the Bailey residence, 4866 Brick Church Pike; the Bogle residence, 1621 Woodland St.; the Hardaway residence, 1218 Seventh Ave. N.; the Kames residence, 904 Russell St.; and the Simpson residence, 712 Fatherland St.

The Russell Street Cityhomes, 909 Russell St., was chosen in a new category for infill construction—new buildings in historic areas. An award was given to the Connell Memorial United Methodist Church in Goodlettsville.

The Market Street Emporium, 112 Second Ave. N., received an award in the mixed use category for buildings with commercial and residential functions.

The winning commercial structures were the Architectural Alliance Inc., 301 Broadway; William T. DePriest (Travel Inc.), 234 Fourth Ave. N.; the Morris Memorial Bldg., 330 Charlotte Ave.; and Lee R. Watson, 28 and 30 Middleton St.

The architectural awards program is sponsored each spring during National Historic Preservation Week to recognize preservation efforts in Davidson County.
